secutor put down a number of bank notes for the purpose of their being so exchanged. The prisoner took up the notes and made away with them. And this was holden to be larceny, if the jury believed that the prisoner intended to run away with the notes, and not to return with the gold.

Soon afterwards the prisoner took an occasion to make a display of his gold, when a conversation respecting it ensued between him and the prosecutor; the prosecutor expressing a wish that the prisoner would oblige him by letting him have some gold in exchange for notes and silver, not at an advanced price, but at its legal currency. The prisoner stated that if it would be any accommodation to the prosecutor, and the prosecutor would do him the same kindness on a future occasion, he would let him have some gold for his notes and silver; and the exchange took place to a small amount. The prisoner then observed, that if it would be of any material service to the prosecutor, he would procure him a considerable further quantity of gold, if the prosecutor would lay down notes to the amount. Upon this the prosecutor put down thirty-five pounds, in bank notes, for the purpose of receiving back their amount in gold; and the prisoner took them up, and went out of the house with them, promising to return immediately with the gold. The prisoner did not return. Upon these facts, Wood, B., held, that the case clearly amounted to larceny, if the jury believed that the intention of the prisoner was to run away with the notes, and never to return with the gold: and that whether the prisoner had, at the time, the animus furandi, was the sole point upon which the question turned; for if the prisoner had, at the time, the animus furandi, all that had been said respecting the property having been parted with by the delivery was without foundation, as the property, in truth, had never been parted with at all. The learned Judge further said, that a parting with the property in goods could only be effected by contract, which required the assent of two minds: but that in this case there was not the assent of the mind, either of the prosecutor or of the prisoner; the prosecutor only meaning to part with his notes on the faith of having the gold in return; and the prisoner never meaning to barter, but to steal. (i)

The prisoner obtained money from the prosecutor on the pretence that he would pay a bill for him with it, and appropriated it; and he was held guilty of larceny.

Upon an indictment for larceny, it appeared that the prosecutor owed some money to Mr. Staines, and that he said to his servant, in the hearing of the prisoner, 'George, you must go to Mr. Staines, and pay him this money;' and thereupon the prisoner said, 'I will take it for you, I live only six doors from Mr. Staines.' Induced by the offer of the prisoner, the prosecutor gave him £1 12*s.* to carry to Mr. Staines in discharge of the debt. The prisoner's statement was altogether false, and he converted the money to his own use. The jury were told that the prisoner was guilty of larceny if they were of opinion that he obtained the money by a trick, and meant at the time to appropriate it to himself; but that if he took it from the prosecutor bonâ fide, and afterwards converted it to his own use, it was not larceny. (j) The jury found that the prisoner had obtained the money by a trick, intending at the time to appropriate it to his own use, and convicted him; and, upon a case reserved, it was held that the case

(i) Oliver's case, cor. Wood, B., cited in Walsh's case. 4 Taunt. 274. 2 Leach, 274.

(j) This latter position seems erroneous; for the prisoner had only the custody and not the possession of the money, and was therefore guilty of larceny in disposing of it. See Reg. v. Thompson, L. & C. C. C. 225, ante, p. 135.

But where upon an indictment for stealing a shilling, it appeared that the prisoner went into a shop, and asked for half an ounce of tobacco, and pitched down half a crown on the counter for it; the shopman put down two shillings on the counter, and, whilst he was counting the halfpence out of the drawer, which was partly open, the prisoner picked up the two shillings off the counter, and appeared to throw them into the till, and asked for four sixpences instead of them; though suspecting that there was something wrong, the shopman gave the prisoner one shilling, two sixpences, and fourpence halfpenny. On examining the drawer, it was found that the prisoner had only thrown in one shilling and pocketed the other: it was held that this was not larceny, but obtaining the money by false pretences. (o)

Where a party is trusted with a sovereign to

And where, upon an indictment for stealing a sovereign, it appeared that the prosecutor and the prisoner having entered a and put that on the counter, expecting she was to receive two shillings of the prisoner's money. The prisoner wishes to have the two shilling piece, and he is to give a shilling and sixpence in silver and sixpence in copper for it. Did the prosecutrix part with the property in the two shilling piece at the moment she put it on the counter? Clearly not. She expected to receive two shillings of the prisoner's money, and if her attention had not been distracted, she would have stopped the prisoner before he left the shop. The placing of the money on the counter was only one step in the transaction. The taking up of the two shilling piece by the prisoner could not affect the question, whether the prosecutrix intended to part with the property in the money, and would not make the transaction complete. Nor again, would the taking up of the other money by the prosecutrix affect that question or complete the transaction. She is putting it into the drawer when she discovers her mistake; the transaction is not then completed, and she has not received the change which she expected to receive when her attention is taken off and the prisoner quits the shop. I think her property in the florin continued until she received what she expected to receive. It appears to me to be the same case as if the prisoner, with 18*s.* in his hand, had asked her to give him a sovereign in change, and she lays the sovereign on the counter and he the silver. He takes up the sovereign and leaves the shop before she has counted the silver; and then she counts the silver, and discovers that she has only 18*s.* instead of 20*s.* I think that would be larceny. The cases cited by the counsel for the prosecution bear out this view of the case. Then, as to The Queen v. Jackson, ante, p. 148, referred to by my Brother Pigott, that was a case of a pawnbroker's servant who delivers a chattel to the prisoner, receiving in exchange what he believes to be a parcel of diamonds, does not open the parcel at the time, and does not discover that they are not diamonds; then the accused leaves the shop, and the parcel is put away. There the transaction is complete; all took place and was done before the chattel was delivered over, with the knowledge that the prisoner was about to depart with it. But no such distinction as that between larceny and obtaining property by means of false pretences exists in this case. The putting of the money on the counter was no final delivery to the prisoner of the coin. I think, therefore, the conviction should be sustained.' See R. v. Twist, 12 Cox, C. C. 509.

(o) Reg. v. Williams, 7 Cox, C. C. 355. Martin, B., said, 'The case against the prisoner here is that he pretended that he had returned the whole when he had only returned one shilling.' This might apply to the last shilling given to the prisoner, and he might have been indicted for obtaining that by false pretences; but as to the shilling pocketed, the case is otherwise; that was put down on the counter in change for the good half-crown, and, until then taken into the hands of the prisoner, remained in the possession of the prosecutor, the counter being in his possession. In Chambers v. Miller, 13 C. B. (N. S.), 125, where a banker, on a cheque being presented, placed the amount on the counter, and the presenter of the cheque drew the money towards him, counted it over once, and was in the act of counting it a second time, it was held that the property in the money had passed. But Byles, J., said, 'I should be inclined to hold, as a matter of law, that so soon as the money was laid upon the counter for the holder of the cheque to take, it became the money of the latter.' No other judge intimated any such opinion, but all relied on the taking possession of the money by the presenter of the cheque; and, with all deference, money on the counter of a banker is just as much in his possession as if it were in his pocket. It is therefore submitted that the prisoner in this case was guilty of stealing the shilling he put in his pocket. C. S. G.

it; the prosecutor gave him the receipt, which the prisoner took, and put two sovereigns into the prosecutor's hand and immediately went away; and upon the prosecutor afterwards asking him for the remainder of the money, he said he had got his receipt and he should not pay it. The prosecutor stated that at the time he gave the prisoner the receipt he thought the prisoner was going to pay him the rent; that he should not have parted with the receipt unless he had been paid all the rent; but that when he put it in the prisoner's hands he never expected to have the receipt again, and that he did not want the receipt back again, but wanted his rent to be paid. For the prisoner it was submitted that this was not a larceny. For the prosecution Oliver's case (s) was cited as in point; and it was contended that it was clear the prosecutor never intended to part with the receipt unless he was paid all the rent: the prisoner, on the contrary, never intended to pay the rent, and obtained the receipt by means of fraud: the property in the receipt, therefore, was not changed, and the case amounted to larceny. Coleridge, J., 'I think it is a larceny. The prisoner had removed his goods off the premises, so that the prosecutor could not distrain; and then the prisoner induces the prosecutor to part with the receipt by asking to look at it, and it is delivered to him for that purpose. It is quite clear also, that the prosecutor never intended to give the prisoner the receipt till he was paid all the rent, and I think the payment of the two sovereigns makes no difference.' (t)

The prisoner, on pretence of paying a bill, got possession of a blank receipt, filled it up and got it signed, and then took it away without paying the money, and it was held not to be larceny.

Upon an indictment for stealing a piece of paper, whereon was impressed a two-shilling-and-sixpenny receipt stamp, and a piece of paper, it appeared that the prisoner managed his father's business, and that he employed Harries as a mason to build some farm-buildings, and paid him various sums as the work was going on by cheques drawn by his father. When the work was completed, Harries had it measured and valued, and sent an account to the prisoner's father, shewing a balance of £49 3*s.* 4*d.* due to Harries, which Harries pressed the prisoner to pay: and he said if Harries and one Williams, who had assisted Harries in the work, would come to his father's house and bring a stamped receipt with them, he would settle with them; they accordingly went, Williams having previously purchased a two-and-sixpenny receipt stamp with money given him by Harries. On their arrival they found the prisoner sitting at a desk, with papers before him, and his father sitting in another part of the room. The prisoner said, 'By this account, there appears to be still due to you a balance of £49 3*s.* 4*d.*, beyond the £125 which you have had. Have you brought a stamped receipt?' Williams replied that he had, and, taking the blank stamp out of his pocket, handed it to the prisoner. The prisoner then said, 'You have not written it.' Williams asked the prisoner to write it. The prisoner then wrote on the stamp, and read it aloud as a receipt for £174 3*s.* 4*d.*, namely, for £125 previously paid, and £49 3*s.* 4*d.* the balance. The prisoner did not give the stamp back either to Harries or Williams, but asked Harries to come to the desk and put his name to it, which he did without removing it from the desk.

judges were unanimously of opinion that the prosecutor had not such a possession of the paper as would enable him to maintain trespass. It was never intended that he should retain it, but it was merely handed over for him to write upon it; and therefore the offence was not larceny. (w)

Property obtained by means of cards, bets, &c.

Where it appeared that the prisoners decoyed the prosecutor into a public-house, and there introduced the play of cutting cards: and that one of them prevailed upon the prosecutor (who did not play on his own account) to cut the cards for him; and then, under pretence that the prosecutor had cut the cards for himself, and had lost, another of them swept his money off the table and went away with it: it was considered to be one of those cases which should be left to the jury to determine quo animo the money was obtained, and which would be felony, in case they should find that the money was obtained upon a preconcerted plan to steal it. (x)

The prosecutor was drawn in to deposit twenty guinea notes on a bet that one of the prisoners could not guess right three times successively on the hiding of a halfpenny by another of the prisoners under a pot: he put the notes in the hands of one of the prisoners, and then the other guessing right, the notes were handed over. The question was left to the jury whether, at the time the notes were taken, there was not a plan between the prisoners that they should be kept, under the false colour of winning a bet; and the jury so found. Upon a case reserved, the judges held that the conviction was right, because at the time of the taking the prosecutor parted with the possession only. (y)

Patch's case. The prisoner, with some accomplices, being in company with the prosecutor, pretended to find a valuable ring. The prosecutor was to have a share of the pretended value of it, and was prevailed upon to deposit his watch, &c., and to take the ring until his share of the value should be paid. The accomplices of

The prisoner was indicted for stealing a silver watch, steel chain, &c., two pieces of foreign coin, and seven shillings in money, the property of J. Bunstead. The prosecutor proved that the prisoner and two other persons, who made their escape, had joined him in the street; and that, after walking a short space with him, one of them stooped down and picked up a purse, which, upon inspection, was found to contain a ring, and a receipt for £147 purporting to be the receipt of a jeweller for 'a rich brilliant diamond ring.' The prisoner proposed that they should go into some public-house to consider in what manner their respective portions of this prize should be divided, and they went accordingly. Various modes of distribution were then suggested; and at length the prisoner asked the prosecutor if he would take the ring, and deposit his money and his watch as a security to return it upon receiving his portion of its value. The prosecutor assented to this proposal; and signed a written agreement dictated by the prisoner, to the effect that when the prisoner, or either of the other two men, returned the watch and money and seventy pounds, he would re-deliver to them the purse and the ring. The case was one of an application to the Court of King's Bench to bail the prisoners on the ground that the charge against them amounted only to a misdemeanor. Probably it would have been considered as making an essential difference if the prosecutor had been playing himself at the time, and had parted with his money under the idea that it had been fairly won. the ring; desiring that he would meet him at the same place, on the next morning at nine o'clock, and promising that he would then return to him the twenty guineas and the four doubloons, and also give him one hundred guineas for his share of the ring. It was also appointed that the prisoner should be there, and agreed that the prosecutor and the stranger should give him a guinea each for his trouble. The prisoner and the stranger went away together. The prosecutor attended the next morning pursuant to the appointment, but neither of the other parties came. The ring was of a very trifling value. It was left with the jury to consider, upon these facts, whether the prisoner and the stranger were not confederated together, for the purpose of obtaining money, on pretence of sharing the value of the ring, and whether he had not aided and assisted the stranger to obtain the money by the means which were used for that purpose. And the jury being of opinion he was so confederated with the stranger, and aiding and assisting him, found the prisoner guilty; and, upon a case reserved, nine of the eleven judges present were of opinion that the guineas and the doubloons were deposited in the nature of a pledge, and not as a loan; so that, though the possession was parted with, the property was not; (more especially as to the doubloons, which the prosecutor clearly understood were to be returned the next day in specie,) and therefore as the prisoner had obtained them with a fraudulent intent to apply them to his own use, the offence became a felony, from the intention with which he gained the possession. And they also held that, as the prisoner and his companion were acting in concert together, they were equally guilty. The other two judges thought that the doubloons were to be considered as money, and that the whole was a loan on the security of the ring, which the prosecutor believed to be of much greater value than the money he advanced upon it, and that therefore he had voluntarily parted with the property, as well as the possession. And they said that when money was delivered by a man on such an occasion, it was not in his contemplation to have the same identical money back again. (a)

The prisoner induced a person to deliver bank-notes to him, by the fraud of ring-dropping, and upon the usual agreement that the notes should be returned, and the value of the jewel divided. Held to be larceny.

The prisoner was indicted for stealing several bank-notes of the value of 100*l.*, the property of J. Smith. M. Smith, the prosecutor's wife, stated, that as she was going along the street the prisoner stooped down, picked up a small parcel, and said that he had got a prize: upon which she cried, 'Halves,' and said it was usual to give half of what was found. They went together into St. James's Park, where they examined the parcel in the presence of another man, (who appeared to be an accomplice of the prisoner's) and found in it a locket with a large stone, and a paper purporting to be the receipt of a jeweller for 250*l.* for a diamond locket. The prisoner said his name was Smith, that he was the captain of a ship, and that he would go to a friend's house, where his cargo was, and bring 100*l.* towards paying the witness her share. He went accordingly, was absent about fifteen minutes, and when he returned he said that his friend was not at home. After some further proposals respecting the disposal of the locket, it was at length agreed between them that the locket should be

Persons acting in concert.

If several act in concert to steal a man's goods, and he is induced by fraud to trust one of them in the presence of the others with the possession of the goods, and then another of the party entice the owner away, in order that the party who has obtained such possession may carry the goods away, all will be guilty of felony, the receipt by one under such circumstances being a felonious taking by all. Standley, Jones, and Webster conspired to get some money from M'Laughlin, and they pretended that he could not produce 100*l.*, upon which he produced it in notes, which Jones took to count and afterwards handed to Standley, and Standley and Webster pretended to gamble for them, Jones then beckoned M'Laughlin out of the room, and Standley and Webster immediately decamped with the money, and all the three afterwards shared it. Upon a case reserved, the judges were unanimous that this was larceny in all the three. (f) In another case County and Donovan planned to rob the prosecutrix of some coats, and County got her to go with him that he might get some money to buy them of her, and she left the coats with Donovan, who immediately absconded with them; and, upon a case reserved, the judges held the receipt by Donovan to be a felonious taking of the coats by both. (g)

The prisoner obtained a horse under pretence of hiring it to take a journey, and shortly afterwards sold it. Held to be larceny, the jury finding an intent to steal the horse at the time of hiring it.

The prisoner was indicted for stealing a gelding, the property of J. Houseman. The prosecutor was a livery stable keeper in Crown Street, Soho; and on the 4th October 1785, the prisoner, who was a post-boy, applied to him for a horse, in the name of a Mr. Eley, saying, that there was a chaise going to Barnet, and that Mr. Eley wanted a horse to accompany the chaise, to carry a servant, and to return with the chaise. The gelding described in the indictment was accordingly delivered to him by the prosecutor's servant. The prisoner mounted the horse; and, on going out of the stable yard, and meeting a friend of his, who asked him where he was going, he said that he was going no further than Barnet. He accordingly proceeded towards Tottenham-court Road, which leads to Barnet, and also, though in some degree circuitously, to Mr. Eley's house. This transaction took place about nine o'clock in the morning; and between three and four o'clock in the afternoon of the same day the prisoner sold the gelding in Goodman's Fields for a guinea and a half, including the bridle and saddle. The horse appeared to have been ridden very hard, and his knees were broken very badly. The purchaser almost immediately disposed of his bargain for fifteen shillings. On putting this case to the jury, it was stated by the Court that the judges in Pear's case, (h) under circumstances similar to the present, had determined, that if a jury be satisfied, by the facts proved, that a person, at the time he admitted into it, had an oath administered to them, which was clearly an unlawful oath within the 39 Geo. 3, c. 79, and 57 Geo. 3, c. 19, s. 25; and it was held that the prisoner could not be convicted of embezzling the money of this society. (w)

SEC. III.

Decisions on Repealed Statutes as to receipt by Clerk or Servant.

A prisoner might be guilty of embezzlement if he received money on account of his master, though he received it in the name of another person.

Upon an indictment for embezzling monies received for, in the name, and on account of Charles Hardy, it appeared that Hardy was agent for the Great Northern Railway Company for the purpose of carrying out goods; he employed his own servants, drays, and horses, and was answerable to the company for monies collected by his servants for carriage of goods. The prisoner was his servant, and it was his duty to go out with a dray, and take goods and a delivery-book handed to him by J. Esplin, a clerk of the company, and to deliver the goods according to the directions contained in that book, and to receive the amount of carriage therein specified as due to the company, and then to account for the sums so received to J. Esplin. He had taken out goods at the times specified in the indictment, and received for the carriage due to the company the sums stated in the said book, which sums were paid to him, and received by him, as due to the company, and the receipts for which were given by the prisoner, and made out in the name of the company. The prisoner appropriated these sums, and Hardy paid the amount to J. Esplin on account of the company, in pursuance of his arrangement with them in that behalf. It was objected that the prisoner received the monies not for, in the name, and on the account of Hardy, but of the company; but, upon a case reserved, it was held that, although the prisoner received the money in the name of the company, he received it on the account of his master; for the words of the Act are 'for or in the name or on the account of his master.' (x)

By virtue of the employment.

It is unnecessary to refer at any length to the cases decided under the repealed acts as to receiving money by virtue of the employment, as the words "by virtue of such employment" in the repealed enactments are, as noticed ante, p. 333, not in the present clause.

Receiving immediately from a customer that which in the ordinary course the servant would have received through the medium of another servant employed to collect from customers, was held to be a receipt by virtue of the employment of the servant, who so received immediately from the customer, in a case where the servant, being intrusted to receive at home from out-door collectors, received abroad from an out-door customer. (y)

It was also decided upon the repealed statute, that where a ser-

the company. If there be such privity as to make the carman the agent of the company in receiving the money, and he agreed to pay it to them, the money in his hands was not the money of the master but of the company. The opinion of the majority of us is, that such privity is established, and therefore that the money was not received on account of the prosecutor, but on account of the company. That being so, this conviction cannot be supported.' (c)

The 39 Geo. 3, was held to apply to a servant who embezzled money received from a customer, to whom his master had given it for the purpose of trying the servant's honesty.

The indictment charged the prisoner, as a servant of one J. Gregory, with receiving the sum of seven shillings from one Hannah Morris, for and on account of his master, and embezzling the same. It appeared that Gregory, who was a potato-merchant, having reason to suspect the prisoner of dishonesty, procured Morris to come to his shop with a marked seven-shilling piece of his own money, there to purchase potatoes, and to pay for them with the seven-shilling piece. She came accordingly, bought potatoes to the amount of one shilling and three pence, and paid the marked seven-shilling piece to the prisoner, who gave her out of his own pocket five shillings and nine pence in change, though he might have given the change out of monies belonging to his master which had been left in the counting-house for that purpose. The seven-shilling piece was afterwards found secreted in the prisoner's box. It was contended that the Act applied only to cases where the monies had been paid to the servant by other persons than the master, and not, as in this case, where the monies had come intermediately from the hand of the master: but the court was perfectly satisfied that there was nothing in the objection, and that if a servant received the money, either from the master, or from a third person on the master's account, it was sufficient. (d)

The prisoner was indicted for embezzling three shillings, the property of his masters, J. Clarke and J. Gyles. Messrs. Clarke and Gyles, whom the prisoner served in the capacity of shopman, having reason to suspect that he embezzled some of the monies received by him in the shop, Mr. Gyles formed a plan for detecting him, and took an account of the money at that time in the till, and marked it; and then went to the house of a neighbour where he took three shillings from his pocket, marked them also, and then gave them to his neighbour's servant, who by his desire, and also by the order of her mistress, went with them to the shop of Messrs. Clarke and Gyles, and purchased of the prisoner, who was then serving in the shop, articles exactly amounting to three shillings, and paid for them with the three shillings given her by Mr. Gyles. The prisoner embezzled these three shillings. It was submitted that, as the three marked shillings were the property of the prosecutors, and had been entered by him in the order book as for the pickles only. An invoice for the pickles, pursuant to the entry, was made out by the prosecutor's brother, and given to Michael, but he delivered the pickles and fourteen pounds of treacle. The sum charged for the pickles was 6*s.* 6*d.*, and Michael entered the treacle at the foot of the invoice at 4*s.* 6*d.* Edmund afterwards received the whole amount, but paid the prosecutor 6*s.* 6*d.* only. Mr. Recorder Law (after consulting Patteson, J.) held that this was not embezzlement but larceny, saying 'Edmund does not receive the 4*s.* 6*d.* for or on account of his master, but contrary to and in breach of his duty towards that master. I may also liken the case to that of two servants, one of whom has authority to sell, and the other not, but merely to receive money; if the one, who has no authority to sell, introduces himself behind the counter, and sells his master's goods, putting the money into his own pocket, that is clearly a stealing, for he sells and receives the money contrary to his authority; and he cannot be said to have been employed or intrusted as clerk and servant, and to have received the money by virtue of such employment, where the act is done contrary to such employment. Here the servant having authority to send out goods to the amount of 6*s.* 6*d.* puts up goods to the amount of 11*s.*, his intention being to put 4*s.* 6*d.* (j) into his own pocket. The time never arrives when he receives that on account of his master, for all that he does is adverse to, and in fraud of, the interest of the master.' (k)

A miller of a county gaol grinding corn contrary to his duty, and appropriating the money received for the grinding, was held not to have received the money by virtue of his employment.

Upon an indictment for embezzlement, which in some counts alleged the prisoner to be the servant of the inhabitants of the county of Worcester, and in others of the clerk of the peace for that county and others, it appeared that the prisoner was the miller of a mill in the gaol of the county, and it was his duty to direct any person bringing grain to be ground at the mill to obtain at the porter's lodge at the gaol a ticket specifying the quantity of grain brought. The ticket was his order for receiving the grain. It was then his duty to receive the grain with the ticket, to grind it at the mill, to receive the money for the grinding from the person bringing the grain with the ticket, and to account to the governor of the gaol for the money so received. The governor accounted for the same to the treasurer of the county rates. It was a breach of the prisoner's duty to receive or grind grain without such a ticket as above mentioned, and he had no right to grind any grain at the mill for his private benefit. The prisoner was appointed to his situation by the magistrates of the county at a fixed weekly salary, which was paid out of the county rates. The monies which the prisoner misappropriated he received from persons for grinding their grain at the mill, but none of these persons had obtained a ticket from the porter's lodge, nor had they been directed by the prisoner to obtain such tickets, nor was there in fact any ticket at all. It was objected that the prisoner did not receive the money by virtue of his employment, nor for or on account of his master; (l) and, upon a case re-

(j) The invoice was for the pickles only.

(k) Reg. v. Wilson, 9 C. & P. 27.

(l) It was also objected that the County Sessions had no jurisdiction to try the prisoner, as the gaol was within the city; it was answered that the 4 Geo. 4, c. 64, s. 48, placed it in the county; and further that the prisoner was not the servant of the Clerk of the Peace and others, or of the inhabitants of the county; but no opinion was expressed on either of these points.

Proviso as to paper used for bills of exchange, &c.

Sec 15. 'Nothing in the last preceding section contained shall prevent any person from issuing any bill of exchange or promissory note having the amount thereof expressed in guineas, or in a numerical figure or figures denoting the amount thereof in pounds sterling, appearing visible in the substance of the paper upon which the same shall be written or printed, nor shall prevent any person from making, using, or selling any paper having waving or curved lines or any other devices in the nature of watermarks visible in the substance of the paper, not being bar lines or laying wire lines, provided the same are not so contrived as to form the groundwork or texture of the paper, or to resemble the waving or curved laying wire lines or bar lines or the watermarks of the paper used by the governor and company of the Banks of England and Ireland respectively.' (g)

Engraving or having any plate, &c., for making notes of Bank of England or Ireland, or other banks, or having such plate, &c., or uttering or having paper upon which a blank bank note, &c., shall be printed.

Sec. 16. 'Whosoever, without lawful authority or excuse (the proof whereof shall lie on the party accused), shall engrave or in anywise make upon any plate whatsoever, or upon any wood, stone, or other material, any promissory note, bill of exchange, or bank post bill, or part of a promissory note, bill of exchange, or bank post bill, purporting to be a bank note, bank bill of exchange, or bank post bill of the governor and company of the Bank of England or of the governor and company of the Bank of Ireland, or of any other (h) body corporate, company, or person carrying on the business of bankers, or to be a blank bank note, blank promissory note, blank bank bill of exchange, or blank bank post bill of the governor and company of the Bank of England or of the governor and company of the Bank of Ireland, or of any such other body corporate, company, or person as aforesaid, or to be a part of a bank note, promissory note, bank bill of exchange, or bank post bill of the governor and company of the Bank of England or of the governor and company of the Bank of Ireland, or of any such other body corporate, company, or person as aforesaid, or any name, word, or character resembling or apparently intended to resemble any subscription to any bill of exchange or promissory note issued by the governor and company of the Bank of England or the governor and company of the Bank of Ireland, or by any such other body corporate, company, or person as aforesaid, or shall use any such plate, wood, stone, or other material, or any other instrument or device, for the making or printing any bank note, bank bill of exchange, or bank post bill, or blank bank note, blank bank bill of exchange, or blank bank post bill, or part of a bank note, bank bill of exchange, or bank post bill, or the words 'or the greater part of such words' for which the Select Committee of the Commons substituted 'any part of such words intended to resemble and pass for the same,' as the greater part of the words 'Bank of Ireland' or 'Bank of England might be visible in paper, and yet might neither resemble nor be intended to resemble either of those expressions.

As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 738; vol. 1, p. 80.

(g) This clause is taken from the 1 Will. 4, c. 66, s. 14, and is new in Ireland.

(h) To engrave upon a plate part of a note purporting to be a note of a Scotch banking company, is an offence within this section, and that effect of the section is not prevented by section 55, which provides that nothing in the Act contained shall extend to Scotland. Cases upon Repealed Statutes.

Cases upon the repealed statutes.

A case has been already noticed in which it was holden, upon the 8 & 9 Will. 3, c. 20, s. 36, that the expunging by means of lemon-juice an indorsement on a bank note, was a rasing of the indorsement. (m) And in the inquiry in a former chapter as to the resemblance which the forged instrument must bear to one that is genuine, a case upon the 15 Geo. 2, c. 13, s. 11, was mentioned, where it was holden that the resemblance to a bank note must appear on the face of the instrument; and that a signature 'for Self and Co.' of 'my bank in England,' did not support an allegation that the paper purported to be a bank note; and further, that the representation of the prisoner could not alter the purport of the instrument. (n)

Possession of a forged note.

The 45 Geo. 3, c. 89, s. 6, made it felony if any person should knowingly have 'in his, her, or their possession or custody,' &c., any forged bank note, &c., and in a case upon this section, in which the circumstances necessary to constitute 'the having in possession' of forged notes, came under the consideration of the judges, they seemed to be of opinion, that every uttering included having in custody and possession within the statute; and some of them thought, that without actual possession, if the notes had been put in any place under the prisoner's control, and by his direction, the result would have been the same. (o)

As to what constitutes an uttering.

In a case upon the 13 Geo. 3, c. 79, s. 2, which subjected to imprisonment any person who should 'knowingly and wilfully publish or utter any promissory note' of the description therein mentioned, it was holden that shewing to a person an instrument in the manner there adopted with an intent to raise a false idea of the party's substance, did not come within its provisions; and also that the leaving it afterwards, sealed up, with the person to whom it was shewn, under cover, that he might take charge of it, as being too valuable to be carried about, was not an uttering or publishing. (p)

Where one of the prisoners knowingly delivered a forged bank note to the other prisoner for the purpose of its being knowingly uttered by her, and she uttered it accordingly, it was holden that the prisoner, who de-

The indictment under the 15 Geo. 2, c. 13, s. 11, charged Palmer and Hudson in one count with feloniously disposing of and putting away a forged bank note, knowing it to be forged. Palmer had been in the habit of putting off forged bank notes, and had employed Hudson in putting them off; on a certain day being at a public house, he sent out Hudson with the forged note in question, for the purpose of passing it; she went to a neighbouring shop, purchased some handkerchiefs for six shillings, and tendered the note in payment, which was suspected and stopped; and, upon examination, appeared to be forged; on the evening of the same day, Palmer went with her to the shop, and when he got there said, 'This woman has been here to-day, and offered a two pound note, which you have stopped; it is my note, and I must have word which the statute uses for constituting the offence; and that the statute did not contain the words, 'to any person or persons,' but to put off with intent to defraud the governor and company of the Bank of England; and the judges held the indictment to be sufficient. (t)

This offence may be committed though the notes were furnished by the prisoners to agents employed by the bank to procure them from the prisoners, and the notes were delivered to such agents as forged notes for the purpose of being disposed of by them.

Another point arose in the same case upon the evidence, from which it appeared that the notes which the prisoners were charged with having disposed and put away were furnished by the prisoners in consequence of an application made to them by agents employed for that purpose by the bank, and that they were delivered to such agents as forged notes, for the purpose of being disposed of by them. In consequence of a great number of forged notes having been circulated in the neighbourhood, Shaw and Whitehead were employed by the magistrates, with the approbation of the agents for the bank, to detect those who were suspected to be the utterers. The prisoners did not pay the notes to Shaw and Whitehead as genuine; but those persons, for the purpose of detection, applied to the prisoners, as supposed dealers in forged bank notes, to purchase them, and the prisoners accordingly procured them, and sold them as forged notes, so that Shaw and Whitehead were not deceived or defrauded in any of the instances, nor were any of the prisoners the first movers in the transaction they had with them; nor did it appear, by any direct evidence, that either of the prisoners, when he was first applied to, had any of the notes in his actual possession; but they respectively produced them at meetings which took place subsequent to such first application. Upon this evidence it was objected that there was no sufficient disposing of the notes, as the prisoners were solicited to commit the act proved against them by the bank themselves, by means of their agents. The objection was overruled, and a case was reserved in order that the point might be considered by the twelve judges, who held the conviction right. (u)

Evidence of guilty knowledge where the party is charged with uttering, &c., forged notes, &c., knowing the same to be forged.

We have seen that the offering, disposing of, receiving, or having possession of forged bank notes, &c., knowing the same to be forged, are made substantive offences by the statutable enactments which have been cited; (v) and the knowledge of the forgery, or, as it is commonly termed, the guilty knowledge, will, of course, in prosecutions for such offences, form a most material part of the inquiry. The principal cases upon this subject are mentioned in a former chapter, treating generally of the crime of forgery. (w)

Bank prosecutions. Practice. Election to proceed for minor offence.

In a case where the Bank of England had preferred a bill of indictment for the capital offence of disposing of and putting away forged Bank of England notes, and also another bill against the same prisoners for the transportable offence of having the same notes in their possession, knowing them to be forged, and had elected to proceed on the latter indictment, it was holden that, although facts sufficient to support the capital charge were made out in evidence, an acquittal for such minor offence ought not to

(u) Rex v. Holden, supra. The ground on which this decision proceeded, was that the intent is the essence of the crime, which exists in the mind, although from circumstances of which the prisoner is not apprised the prosecutor cannot be defrauded.

within the jurisdiction of the Central Criminal Court; but after full argument upon a case reserved, the judges were all of opinion that the offence charged was within the statute, except Parke, B., Alderson, B., and Coleridge, J., who entertained some doubt, and the conviction was affirmed. (a)

Upon an indictment on the 41 Geo. 3, c. 57, s. 2, (now repealed), which charged the prisoner with having in his custody a plate on which was engraved part of a promissory note, purporting to be the promissory note of a body corporate called the British Linen Company, it was objected that it was not an offence within this statute to have in custody a plate for making notes, &c., in the name of such company, though it appeared that they carried on business as bankers, because they were incorporated for a purpose entirely different, viz., that of carrying on a linen company; and it was also objected that the indictment was bad, as it omitted to aver that the company carried on the business of bankers, which the Act required. The objections having been reserved for the consideration of the judges, they seemed to be of opinion that the first objection was fatal; and were all of opinion that the indictment was bad, for the reason stated in the second, and that judgment should be arrested. (b)

What is a part of a note purporting to be part of a banker's note?

Upon an indictment under the 1 Will. 4, c. 68, s. 18, for engraving part of a promissory note, it appeared that the prisoner had cut out the centre part of a promissory note of the British Linen Banking Company, on which the whole of the promissory part of the note was written, and taken the ornamental border to a printer, representing that he wanted to have a plate made of this border, intending to fill up the centre with the title of some oil or cosmetic, of which the firm in whose employ he represented himself to be were the vendors. The printer applied to an engraver, from whom he obtained a plate, the impression from which showed that the royal arms of Scotland and the Britannia respectively occupied the same place on the plate as they would in an original note of the company; and, upon a case reserved, upon the question whether a plate having on it merely the royal arms of Scotland and the Britannia satisfied the words 'any part of any promissory note purporting to be part of a note, &c.,' it was held that the conviction was right. The word 'note' is not limited to the parts of a promissory note in a strict legal sense; but includes all that is upon the paper, upon which the note is written, (c) and in order to ascertain whether an engraving purports to be part of a note, the engraving must be compared with a genuine note. (d)

(a) Reg. v. Hannon, 2 Moo. C. C. R. 77. 9 C. & P. 11.

(c) Per Coleridge, J.

(d) Reg. v. Keith, Dears. C. C. 486. This case was not argued for the prisoner, and seems open to very considerable doubt. The doubt is, whether there must not be such a portion engraved that on comparison it can clearly be seen that it purports to be part of a note of the particular company, and of no other company. Suppose two or more companies used the same border, how could any engraving of that border purport to be part of the note of any one of those companies? Or suppose a tradesman headed his bills, or a magistrate his warrants, with the same identical form of the royal arms as a banker put on his notes, how would any document with those arms alone on it purport to be one more than the other? The question is not what the prisoner intended the thing to be, but what it purported to be. C. S. G.

Sec. 4. Where by any act heretofore passed reference is made to the enactments relating to stamp duties in force at the time of the passing of such Act, such reference shall after the passing of this Act be read and construed as a reference to this Act, instead of the said enactments.

Criminal offences relating to stamps.

Sec. 18. Any person who does, or causes, or procures to be done, or knowingly aids, abets, or assists in doing, any of the acts following, that is to say,

(1) Forging a die or stamp:

(2) Making an impression upon any material with a forged die:

(3) Fraudulently cutting, tearing, or in any way removing from any material any stamp, with the intent that any use should be made of such stamps or of any part thereof:

(4) Fraudulently mutilating any stamp, with intent that any use should be made of any part of such stamp:

(5) Fraudulently fixing or placing upon any material, or upon any stamp, any stamp, or part of a stamp, which, whether fraudulently or not, has been cut, torn, or in any way removed from any other material, or out of or from any other stamp:

(6) Fraudulently erasing, or otherwise either really or apparently removing from any stamped material any name, sum, date, or other matter or thing whatsoever thereon written, with the intent that any use should be made of the stamp upon such material:

(7) Knowingly selling, or exposing for sale, or uttering or using any forged stamp:

(8) Knowingly, and without lawful excuse (the proof of which lawful excuse lies on the person accused), having in possession any forged die or stamp, or any stamp or part of a stamp which has been fraudulently cut, torn, or otherwise removed from any material, or any stamp which has been fraudulently mutilated, or any stamped material out of which any name, sum, date, or other matter or thing has been fraudulently erased or otherwise either really or apparently removed, is guilty of felony, and upon being convicted shall be liable to be subjected to penal servitude for the term of his natural life, or for any term not less than five years, or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding three years.

Proceedings for the detection of forged dies, &c.

Sec. 19. On information given before any justice of the peace upon oath that there is just cause to suspect any person of being guilty of any of the offences aforesaid, such justice may, by a warrant under his hand, cause every dwelling-house, room, workshop, outhouse, or other building or place belonging to or occupied by the suspected person, or where he is suspected of being or having been in any way engaged or concerned in the commission of any such offence, or of secreting any forged die or stamp, or any machinery, implements, or utensils, applicable to the commission word 'settled.' It was further urged, that if the word 'settled' had any definite meaning, it meant a receipt, as was held in Spamforth, q. t. v. Alexander, (c) and as the legislature must be taken to have meant different things by the words 'receipt' and 'acquittance,' the Court could not say that it was an acquittance. But, upon a case reserved, the judges were unanimously of opinion that the count was good. (d)

An indictment for forging the following receipt, '16*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.*, for the high constable, J. Hughes,' does not require explanatory averments.

The indictment charged the prisoner with forging a certain receipt for the payment of money, in form following (that is to say):—

'6th January, 1830.

'£16 : 15 : 6

'For the High Constable,

with intent to defraud J. Grundy. It was objected that the document set out was not on the face of it necessarily 'a receipt for the payment of money.' The words were in themselves quite ambiguous, and might as well be construed to import that Hughes had paid money for the high constable, as that he had received it for him; neither was it to be deemed a receipt because the prosecutor had called it by that name in the indictment. He should have gone further, and explained by reference to the other documents, or to the course of business, how the instrument, in itself ambiguous, came to have the effect of a receipt. (e) Alderson, B., 'the cases cited are clearly distinguishable from the present. In Hunter's case, the forgery consisted in merely counterfeiting the signature of the party, which, of course, meant nothing without reference to other documents. In Thompson's case, the forgery consisted in writing the word 'settled' on an account; that, also, was an expression in itself entirely ambiguous: it might mean either that the party was satisfied as to the correctness of the items, or that he had received the amount. But, indeed, that case has been expressly overruled by Rex v. Martin. I think there is nothing in the objection.' (f)

The word 'paid' at the bottom of a bill imports a receipt or acquittance for money.

So where on an indictment for forging and uttering an acquittance and receipt for money, it appeared that the prosecutrix gave the prisoner the bill of a Mr. Sadler, a cheesemonger, with money to pay that bill and a variety of others, and the prisoner brought the bill back again to the prosecutrix, with the words, 'Paid, sadler,' at the bottom of the bill, with a little s, and no Christian name, and Sadler proved that he never signed any bills in such manner, with a little s and no Christian name, but all his bills had his initials, 'S. Sadler,' to them; it was contended that the words 'Paid, sadler,' did not necessarily import a receipt by Sadler, but they might be a memorandum of the prisoner of her having paid the money to him. But Lord Denman, C. J., in summing up, said, 'You must be satisfied that this was a receipt for money, and I

Question whether 'settled' purported to be the receipt of the prisoner or of another person.

The prisoner was indicted for uttering a forged receipt for money as stated in some counts, and for uttering a forged acquittance and receipt for money as stated in other counts. The instrument was as follows:—

'Received from
'Mr. Bendon, due to
'Settelled.'

The prisoner was servant to Mr. Warman, and applied to Bendon's wife for payment of a debt of 17*s.* due to Warman. She refused, unless she had Warman's receipt, and the prisoner went away and returned with the above document; upon which she paid the money. The jury having convicted, upon a case reserved, six of the judges (k) thought the conviction good, as the receipt sufficiently appeared to be the receipt of Warman, especially considering the conduct of the prisoner in producing it as such, and if so it was a forgery. The other five judges (l) thought it did not purport to be the receipt of Warman, and therefore was no forgery, inasmuch as if it was taken to be the receipt of the prisoner it was no forgery; and that the offence of the prisoner was obtaining money by false pretences. (m)

A pay-serjeant of the artillery obtained from the paymaster a receipt for a sum of money as part of subsistence of a company for the month of May. He erased May and inserted June, and gave the receipt to a tradesman, who, according to the usual practice, advanced the sum to the prisoner, and sent the receipt to the agent of the regiment, who paid the amount. An indictment for forgery, describing the instrument as a receipt, was held good.

The prisoner was convicted upon an indictment, which charged that he did feloniously forge a certain receipt for money, which was as follows:—

'Received the 22nd day of May, 1834, of Messrs. Cox and Co., Paymasters, Royal Regiment of Artillery, the sum of £13 sterling, being a part of subsistence for a detachment of Captain Bayley's company, second battalion Royal Artillery at Woolwich, for the month of June, 1834.

'R. M. POULDEN, Lieutenant Royal Artillery'—

with intent to defraud R. H. Cox and others. There was another count for feloniously uttering a like forged receipt for money, knowing it to be forged, and several other counts, upon which no question arose. In May, 1834, Lieutenant Poulden had the charge of a detachment of Captain Bayley's company of the second battalion royal artillery at Woolwich, of which he was also the paymaster; the prisoner was acting under him as pay-serjeant. The following is the mode by which the subsistence money is provided:—The pay-serjeant makes out for the use of the paymaster, at the beginning of every month, an abstract of the subsistence money which will be wanted for the soldiers during the ensuing month, and the paymaster gives information to Messrs. Cox and Greenwood, the agents of the regiment, accordingly. The pay-serjeant, in order to receive this money, brings to the paymaster, about once a week, a receipt, partly printed and partly filled up by himself, in the form above set forth, and upon obtaining the paymaster's signature thereto, he gets cash for it from any of the neighbouring tradesmen, who afterwards either pass it to others or send it up out of the money by you collected, or to be collected, for the relief of the poor of your parish; the sum of £3 15*s.* 9*d.*, being the proportion of your said parish, for and towards the general county rate, to be applied for the several purposes mentioned and set forth in the several statutes in such case made and provided, and herein fail not at your peril.

'Given under my hand at Mowley, in the said county, the 6th day of December, 1837.

'Dec. 31. Rec[d]. the above rate. 'J. POWELL.'

'JOHN POWELL, Chief Constable of the Hundred of——.'

And it was proved that Powell, the high constable, had sent the precept for the county rate, which was set forth in the indictment, with the sum of 3*l.* 5*s.* 9*d.*, stated in it as the amount, and that he afterwards received that sum from the prisoner, and then wrote, 'Dec. 31. Received the above rate, J. Powell.' The prisoner afterwards presented the document altered into 3*l.* 15*s.* 9*d.* to the auditor of the Union, and obtained that sum from him. It was objected that this was not a forgery of a receipt, for that the whole receipt was contained in the words, 'Dec. 31. Rec[d]. the above rate, J. Powell,' which was unaltered, and that altering the precept for the rate to which the receipt referred was not a forgery of the receipt. It was answered that the alteration varied the amount for which the receipt was given, and therefore it was a forgery of the receipt: and it was held that it was clearly a forgery of the receipt. (p)

A scrip receipt, not filled up with the subscriber's name, is not a receipt for money within the statute.

It has been holden that a scrip receipt, not filled up with the name of the subscriber or person from whom the money was received, is not a receipt for money within the statutes. The point came on for consideration upon demurrer; and after argument, Grose, J., delivered the opinion of the judges, and said that the instrument, the tenor of which was necessarily set forth in the indictment, was not a receipt for money in contemplation of law within the meaning of the 2 Geo. 2, c. 25, &c. That it was the duty of the cashier appointed by the bank to receive such subscriptions to fill up the receipts with the names of the subscribers, or persons from whom they originally received the money; and until the blank left in the printed form was so filled up, the instrument did not become an acknowledgment of payment; or, in other words, a receipt for money. While in such a state it was no more a receipt than if the sum professed to be received had been omitted. (q)

A scrip certificate in a railway company is not 'an accountable receipt,' or 'an acquittance' or 'receipt.'

In an action for false imprisonment the defendants justified on the ground that the plaintiff had uttered a forged accountable receipt for money, and on the trial the plea was amended by substituting the words 'acquittance or receipt.' The document was as follows:—

(p) Reg. v. Vaughan, 8 C. & P. 276, Gurney, B. It was also objected that there ought to have been an innuendo that 'Rec[d].' meant 'Received,' but this objection was also overruled.

(q) Lyon's case, 2 Leach, 597. 2 East, P. C. c. 19, s. 36, p. 933. And see several points as to the forgery of scrip receipts discussed in Reeves's case, 2 Leach, 808, et seq.

the instruments were not receipts at all, either accountable or otherwise. At the time of receiving such instrument the party is in possession of a receipt for the money, and therefore it is presumable that it was not intended as a receipt, but as something else; and if it be contended that it is a second receipt, the form of the instrument negatives that, and shews that it operates quite in a different manner, and was intended so to do. The mere recital in the instrument—that the party had paid 5l.—cannot make it a receipt. Neither are the instruments undertakings for the payment of money. They are mere contingent undertakings; for it is left in doubt what the party undertaking will do. The nature of the undertaking itself depends on the occurrence of a contingency. On the part of the crown it was contended that the instrument was both a receipt and acquittance. Suppose A. writes to B. offering to make him a present, the offer is intercepted by C., who forges the receipt of B., and presents it to A., who thereupon gives him the present; would not that be forgery? The Act seems to distinguish a receipt from an acquittance. It says, 'receipt or acquittance,' and seems to have contemplated some such case of acquittance, where the payment was voluntary, and not merely such receipts as are themselves acquittances. The holder was discharging an obligation when he paid the 5l., as there was an agreement that he should do so. The instrument operates as an accountable receipt, being an acknowledgment by the company that they have received 5l., and hold it on account of the holder of the scrip. The instrument is also an undertaking for the payment of money. It is an undertaking by the company to pay interest on the shares. If on any contingency the interest might become payable, this is an undertaking within the statute. Afterwards eight of the judges (ss) were of opinion that the instrument did not purport to be a receipt and acquittance, nor even a receipt within the statute. It was not a receipt in ordinary parlance, nor made with the intent of being such, though it might be used as evidence of the payment of the deposit; but any written paper capable of being so used was not a receipt; as, for instance, a letter written by a landlord to a third person saying that his tenant had duly paid his rent. On the other hand, four judges (t) thought that the instrument was on the face of it an acknowledgment of the payment of the deposit, and was therefore a receipt for that sum. Coltman, J., thought it was an undertaking for the payment of money. Lord Denman, C. J., and Wilde, C. J., doubted whether it were so, but gave no opinion; and the rest of the judges were of opinion that it was not. They thought it was only an undertaking to deliver shares bearing interest, not that the interest should be paid; as an undertaking to deliver a bond for the payment of money with interest would be no undertaking for the payment of money. (u) Reg. v. West, 1 Den. C. C. 258. 2 C. & K. 496. Maule, J., in the course of the argument asked, 'Would it be forgery to write to a man, "Sir—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your obliging letter, and return you many thanks for your kind present of 10*l.*"—would that be an acquittance? No; for the giver is quit before he gives the present. There that he, and not the navy-board, was answerable to them. That, therefore, the board had nothing to do with these receipts; and it was indifferent to the board whether these sums had been paid to these several persons or not. The prisoner having been convicted, the case was submitted to the consideration of the twelve judges, who all (with the exception of Lawrence, J., who was absent), held that the conviction was right, and that the receipts, as stated, were within the statute. Grose, J., in delivering their opinion, said, 'The facts in the case prove that these receipts were forged; and that they purported to have been given to Collinridge by workmen for monies paid by him to them for work done for the commissioners of the navy-board. The persons, therefore, employed for that purpose by him, were employed not solely on his account, but on account of the King; and these receipts, if genuine, would have been legal vouchers for his account, and would have entitled him to a discharge from the navy-board. It is clear then, from the facts proved at the trial, and from the verdict of the jury, that these receipts are forged receipts, and that they were knowingly uttered by the prisoner with intent to defraud the King.' (y)

Forging a receipt in order to found a claim of payment thereon against a third person, is as much within the statute as forging it to defeat a claim by the person whose name is forged.

In the foregoing case a point arose as to the right of the prisoner to put the prosecutor to his election, on an indictment stating various forgeries. The first count of the indictment charged that the prisoner uttered, &c., a certain forged acquittance and receipt for money (setting it forth), also a certain other forged acquittance and receipt for money (also setting it forth), and stated in like manner above twenty other receipts of different dates, for different sums, and purporting to be signed by different persons, with intent to defraud the King. And before any witnesses had been examined, the counsel for the prisoner submitted to the Court whether the prosecutor ought not, under the circumstances of this case, to elect on which of the several receipts stated in the first count of the indictment he intended to proceed, and be restrained from proceeding on more than one of them; as, amidst such a variety, it would otherwise be almost impossible for the prisoner to conduct his defence. But Le Blanc, J., referred to the indictment, by which it appeared that all the receipts stated in the first count were charged to have been uttered at one and the same time; and as this single act of uttering the receipts would, if clearly proved, constitute only one offence of uttering, he refused the application. The proof was, that the several receipts stated in the indictment were uttered at the same time in one bundle, given by the prisoner to the solicitor of the navy-board. And when the case was submitted to the consideration of the twelve judges, they were all of opinion that the application to put the prosecutor to his election was properly refused. (z)

As to the right of the prisoner to put the prosecutor to his election, on an indictment stating various forgeries.

The prisoner was indicted for forging a receipt with intent to defraud W. Clegg. Clegg's mother had sent a post-office order for 1*l.* to him at Portsmouth, and this letter, after having been left in Clegg's room, had been abstracted by some one; and the same day the prisoner went to the post-office, and there produced

A signature to a post-office order or receipt seems to be a receipt.

A signature of a witness on an order for costs in a prosecution is not a receipt, where it is written in order to enable the person presenting the order to receive the money ordered to be paid.

The prisoner was indicted for forging an acquittance and receipt for money, and it appeared that the prisoner was clerk to an attorney who had been employed by W. Ryder to prosecute J. Ash for perjury. Ash was tried for perjury at the Stafford Summer Assizes, 1845, and an order made for the payment of the costs of the prosecution on the treasurer of the county. This order was in the usual form, directing a certain sum to be paid to the prosecutor and each of the witnesses respectively. The practice of the county treasurer was to pay the whole amount of such an order to the attorney for the prosecution, or his clerk; but he required the signature of every person named in the order to be written on the back of the order, and opposite each name the sum ordered to be paid to each person respectively; but the treasurer did not make any inquiry, or take any step to ascertain whether the different persons had actually received the sums set against their names. The prisoner took the order to the treasurer's office, having obtained the signatures of W. Ryder, the prosecutor, and all the witnesses except three, and on behalf of these three witnesses the prosecutor had signed his name, and the indorsement at the back of the order when first presented to the treasurer was as follows:—

'William Ryder	24	11	6
'George Keates	2	13	4
'Joseph Perkin	2	13	4
'Samuel Shellard	2	14	8
'Jane Vickerstaff	2	14	8
'William Bransfield	3	0	0
'James Brentnall	1	10	0
'Thomas Hodgkinson	1	10	0
'For John Cliff, James Oakes, and Thomas Hope 'William Ryder	6	10	8
	49	8	2'

The treasurer's clerk objected to pay the amount, and required the actual signatures of the three witnesses, and having drawn his pen across their names, he gave back the order to the prisoner, who took it away, and brought it back; and the order, as he then presented it, appeared to have the signatures of the three witnesses, thus:—

	£	s.	d.
'James Oakes	1	10	0
'John Cliff	3	10	8
'Thomas Hope	1	10	0'

The treasurer's clerk then paid the prisoner 49*l.* 8*s.* 2*d.*; and the prisoner wrote 'C. J. Parker, for T. Cooper,' under the indorsements on the back of the order. The name James Oakes was not written by him or by his authority. It was objected that this signature on the back of the order was neither a receipt nor acquittance. The 7 Geo. 4, c. 64, s. 24, required the treasurer to pay burning such other house. (m) So it has been held that if a person set fire to a stack, the fire from which is likely to communicate to a barn, and it does so, and the barn is burnt, he is in point of law indictable for setting fire to the barn. (n) So where the prisoners set fire to a summer-house which was in a wood, and some of the trees overhung it, and their branches were burnt by the fire, which consumed the summer-house and also burnt some of the trees, it was held that the prisoners might be convicted under the 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 30, s. 17, of setting fire to the wood. (o)

It may be effected by setting fire to the party's own house.

And such malicious and wilful burning of the house of another may be by the means of setting fire to the party's own house; and this, though it should appear that the primary intention of the party was only to burn his own house. If in fact other houses were burnt, being adjoining, and in such a situation as that the fire must in all probability reach them, the intent being unlawful and malicious, and the consequences immediately and necessarily following from the original act done, the offence will be felony. (p) Thus where the defendant was indicted for a misdemeanor, in burning a house in his own occupation, such house being alleged to be contiguous and adjoining to certain dwelling-houses of divers liege subjects, &c.; and the facts of the case, as opened by the counsel for the prosecution, appeared to be that the defendant set fire to his own house, in order to defraud an insurance office, and that in consequence several houses of other persons, adjoining to his own, were burnt down; Buller, J., said that if other persons' houses were in fact burnt, although the defendant might only have set fire to his own, yet under these circumstances the prisoner was guilty, if at all, of felony (the misdemeanor being merged) and could not be convicted on this indictment; and, therefore, he directed an acquittal. (q) And in a case of a similar kind, which occurred about the same time, Grose, J., in passing sentence in the Court of King's Bench, said, that if it had so happened that any of the neighbouring houses had been set on fire in consequence of the defendant's wilful and malicious act in setting fire to his own house (which was proved to have been done in order to cheat the insurance office), it would clearly have amounted to a capital felony. (r)

(m) Plowd. 574. 2 East, P. C. c. 21, s. 7, p. 1031.

(n) Rex v. Cooper, 5 C. & P. 535, Parke, J. Lord C. J. Tindal, in his charge to the Bristol grand jury, 1832, 5 C. & P. 266, note, said, 'Nor will it be necessary to prove that the house, the subject of the indictment in any particular case, was that which was actually set on fire by the prisoner. It will be sufficient to constitute the offence if he is shewn to have feloniously set on fire another house, from which the flames communicated to the rest. No man can shelter himself from punishment on the ground that the mischief which he committed was wider in its consequences than he originally intended.' See Curtis v. The Hundred of Godley, 3 B. & C. 248. But in Turner's case, 1 Lewin, 9, it is said that Parke, J., left it to the jury whether the prisoner intended by setting fire to a stack of haulm to set fire to a building close adjoining, and that the judges were of opinion this direction was right. In R. & M. C. C. R. 239, this point is not noticed, and it is at variance with all the other authorities.

(o) Reg. v. Price, 9 C. & P. 729, Gurney, B. The summer-house in this case was not a building, the burning whereof was then a felony.

man, maintained by a parish, and had, some time before the commission of the crime, been put by the parish officers to live in the house which he was charged with burning, and was resident therein with his family at the time of the fact being committed, having the sole possession and occupation of it, but without payment of any rent: all the judges held that it could not be considered as his house; and that he was properly convicted of the arson. (y)

It will be presently seen that the questions as to the possession and ownership of the house in which the arson is committed, are of less importance under the statute law; as the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, makes the setting fire to a house, &c., with intent to injure or defraud any person, a felony, whether such house, &c., shall be in the possession of the person so setting fire thereto, or of others.

Of what is included in the term house.

The remaining inquiry concerning arson at common law is as to the meaning of the word house. And this, it may be briefly observed, extends not only to the dwelling-house, but to all outhouses, which are parcel thereof, though not adjoining thereto, or under the same roof; (z) of which kind of outhouses mention has been made in a former part of this work. (a) It appears that the indictment need not charge the burning to be of a mansion house, but only of a house. (b)

Misdemeanor in burning a man's own house, when contiguous to others.

It has been already stated that the burning a man's own house in a town, or so near to other houses as to create danger to them, though not within the definition of arson, is yet a great misdemeanor at common law. (c)

Sec. II.

Present Enactments.

Setting fire to a church or chapel.

By the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 1, 'whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to any church, chapel, meeting-house, or other place of divine worship, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall be liable, at the discretion of the court, to be kept in penal servitude for life or for any term not less than three (d) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and with or without solitary confinement, and, if a male under the age of sixteen years, with or without whipping.' It appears from these cases that where an indictment charges an act to have been done with a felonious intent, and the jury find a verdict of guilty; if the charge, as laid, do not amount to felony, but amounts in law to a misdemeanor, the court will pronounce judgment as for that offence. See Probert's case, 2 East, P. C. c. 21, s. 7, p. 1030.

(d) Not less than five years, if the offence was committed after the 25th July, 1864, see vol. 1, p. 73.

(e) This clause is taken from the 7 Will. 4 & 1 Vict. c. 89, s. 3, and 9 & 10 Vict. c. 25, s. 9.

The words 'church, chapel, meeting-house, or other place of divine worship,' are taken from the 9 Geo. 4, c. 55, s. 10 (I.), and thus the terms of this clause are made the same as those in sec. 11, with or without hard labour, and, if a male under the age of sixteen years, with or without whipping.' (l)

Setting fire to any public building.

Sec. 5. 'Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to any building other than such as are in this Act before mentioned, belonging to the Queen, or to any county, riding, division, city, borough, poor law union, parish, or place, or belonging to any university or college, or hall of any university, or to any inn of court, or devoted or dedicated to public use or ornament, or erected or maintained by public subscription or contribution, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall be liable, at the discretion of the court, to be kept in penal servitude for life or for any term not less than three (ll) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and, if a male under the age of sixteen years, with or without whipping.' (m)

Setting fire to other buildings.

Sec. 6. 'Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to any building other (n) than such as are in this Act before mentioned shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall be liable, at the discretion of the court, to be kept in penal servitude for any term not exceeding fourteen years and not less than three (ll) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and, if a male under the age of sixteen years, with or without whipping.' (p) (l) This clause is taken from the 14 & 15 Vict. c. 19, s. 8, and extended to buildings belonging to ports and harbours. As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895; vol. 1, pp. 80, 81.

(ll) Not less than five years if the offence was committed after the 25th July, 1864, see vol. 1, p. 73.

(m) This clause is new. Before this Act passed there was no statute applicable to the burning of any public building, however important, unless it could be held to fall within the term 'house.' See Donnavan's case, 1 Leach, 69. As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895; vol. 1, pp. 80, 81.

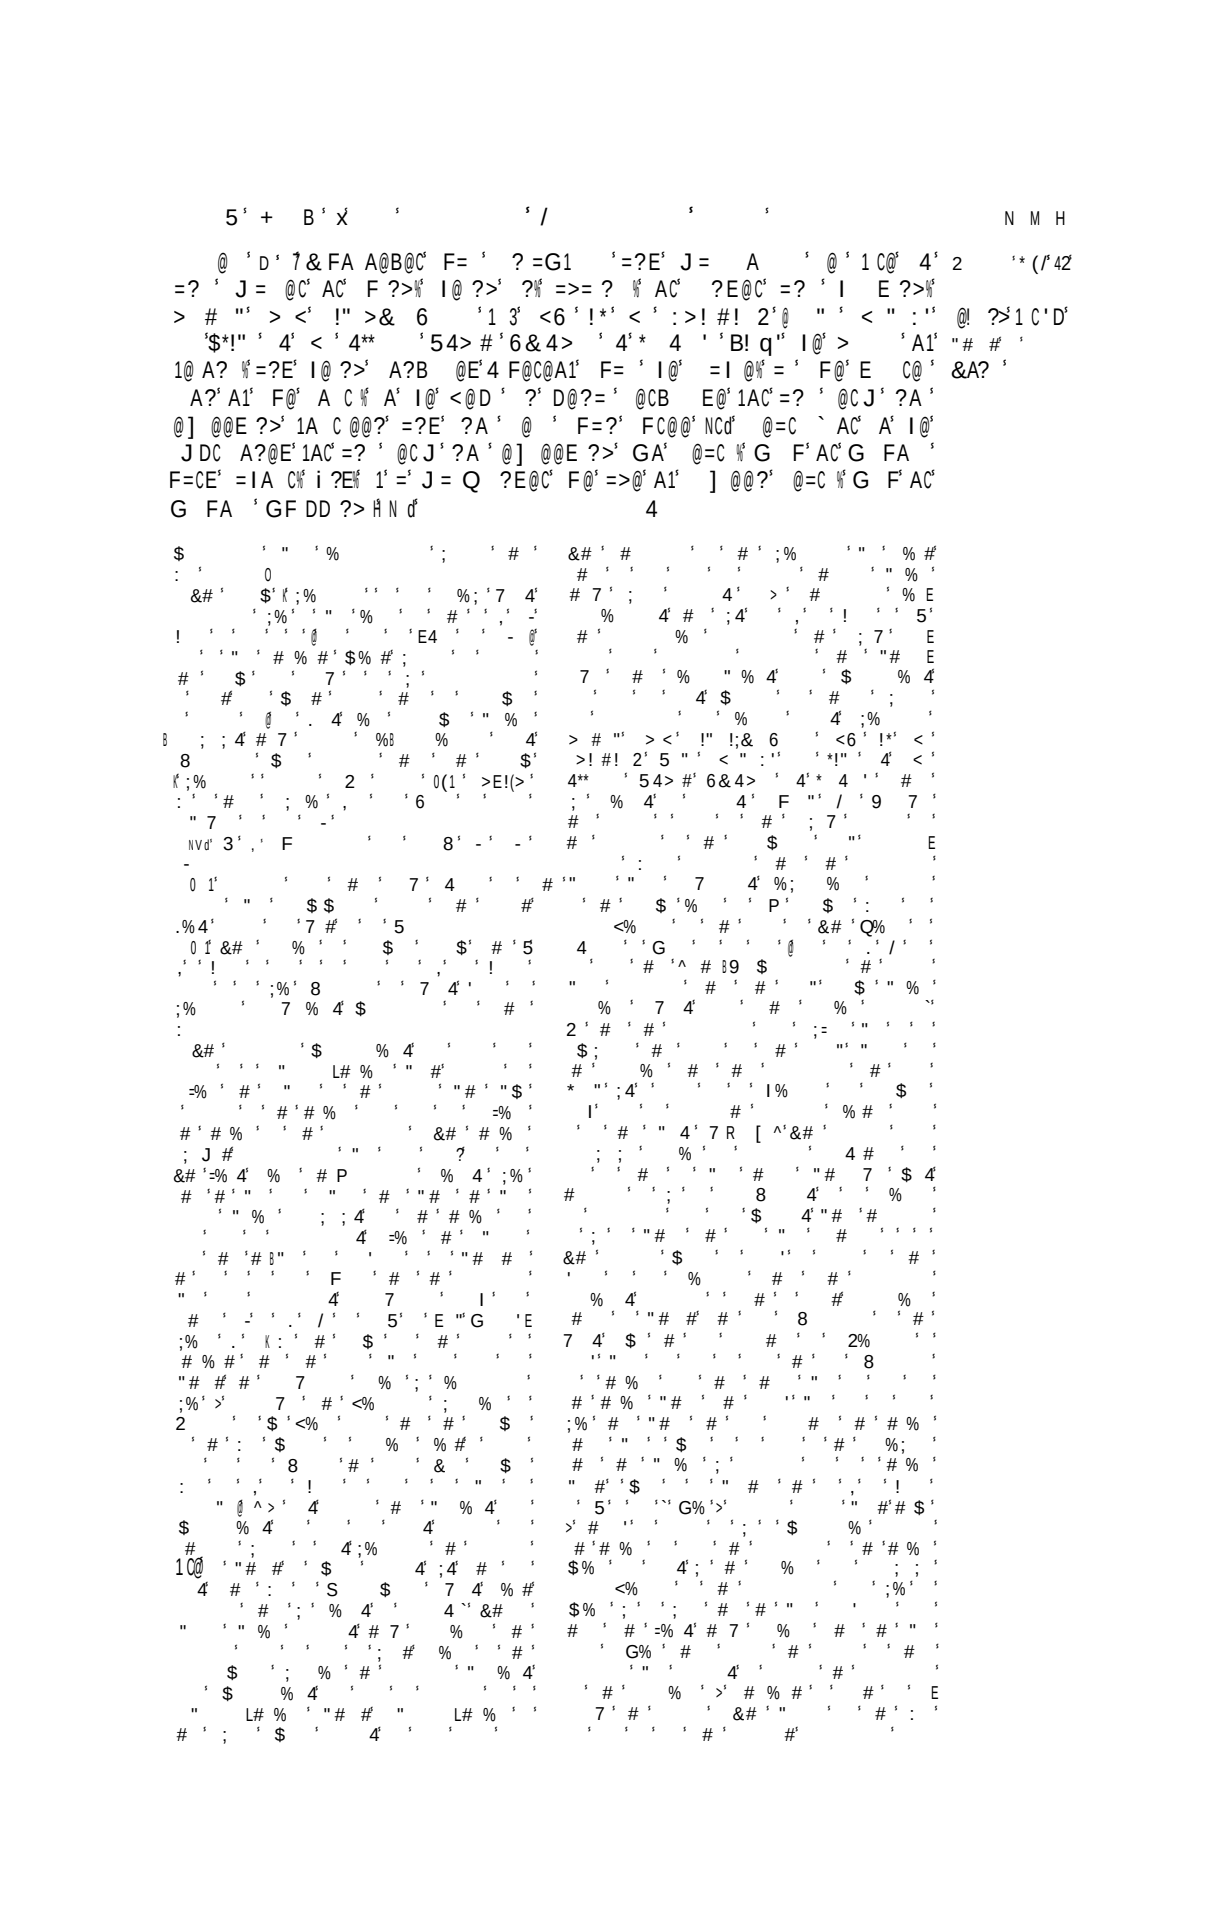
(n) An unfinished house, brick built, of which all the walls external and internal were built and finished, the roof on and finished, the flooring of a considerable part laid, and the internal walls and ceilings prepared for plastering, is a building within the meaning of the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 6, the setting fire to which is made a felony. R. v. Manning, 41 L. J. M. C. 11, et per Kelly, C. B., the question turns upon the 6th section of the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97. Now the 3rd section throws light upon this section, for it enacts that 'whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to any house, stable, coachhouse, outhouse, warehouse, office, shop, mill, &c., or shall be,' &c. The argument might be urged that these several buildings thus enumerated in the 3rd section are all completed buildings, and therefore, that the buildings referred to in the 6th section must be ejusdem generis and a completed building, but this is not so in fact, as the enumeration of buildings in the 3rd section includes buildings which may form part of a structure. Take, for example, an office which may form part of a house, and may be a complete office on the ground floor, whilst the house above it may not be completed. So again, a shop may be part of a house consisting of a shop with upper floors intended for residence, as for lodgings, or for other purposes. There the shop or office would be within the 3rd section. Then there being nothing in the 3rd section to limit its operation to completed buildings, the 6th section is extended to buildings other than such as are before mentioned. It is to be observed that the expression used is, 'any building other' and not 'any other building.' I think, therefore, that the ruling of the learned judge was correct, and that it was a question for the jury. This building was a building fairly and substantially within the meaning of the Act of Parliament. I say nothing as to what extent of partial building would be necessary to satisfy the Act of Parliament. It may be that in a case where the walls of a house have been only raised two or three yards it may not amount to such a building, but I give no opinion upon this matter. I limit my judgment to the case before us.

(p) This clause is new. It will include every building not falling within any of the previous sections of the Act. It will include ornamental buildings in parks and pleasure-grounds, hothouses, pineries, and all those buildings which, not being within the curtilage of a dwelling-house, and not falling within any term previously



Attempting to set fire to buildings.

Sec. 8. 'Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously by any overt act attempt to set fire to any building or any matter or thing in the last preceding section mentioned, under such circumstances that if the same were thereby set fire to the offender would be guilty of felony, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall be liable, at the discretion of the court, to be kept in penal servitude for any term not exceeding fourteen and not less than three (t) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and with or without solitary confinement, and, if a male under the age of sixteen years, with or without whipping.' (u)

Destroying or damaging a house with gunpowder, any person being therein.

Sec. 9. 'Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously, by the explosion of gunpowder or other explosive substance, destroy, throw down, or damage the whole or any part of any dwelling-house, any person being therein, or of any building whereby the life of any person shall be endangered, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall be liable, at the discretion of the court, to be kept in penal servitude for life or for any term not less than three (t) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and with or without solitary confinement, and, if a male under the age of sixteen years, with or without whipping.' (v)

Attempting to destroy buildings with gunpowder, &c.

Sec. 10. 'Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously place or throw in, into, upon, under, against, or near any building any gunpowder or other explosive substance, with intent to destroy or damage any building, or any engine, machinery, working tools, fixtures, goods, or chattels, shall, whether or not any explosion those who prepared it have narrowed the effect of the section, instead of extending it.'

The prisoners were indicted for setting fire to certain post letters in a dwelling-house, divers persons then being in the said house, against the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 7; there were other counts framed on the 8th section of the Act. One prisoner was sixteen years of age, the other eighteen, and they were seen opposite a post-office, the letter box of which is upon the floor under the shop window ledge, and letters are dropped in from the slit outside. Both went close to the box, and the younger was about to drop in the remains of a paper he had lighted from his pipe, when the elder said, 'What the devil is the use of that? It is not half big enough.' He then lighted a larger piece, and dropped both pieces through into the box. Both ran away. The pieces of paper partly burnt twenty-nine letters. Williams, J., 'How can you support this indictment? From the evidence it appears that this act on the part of the prisoners was what is vulgarly called a lark, and that there was no intention to set fire to the house. . . . No doubt, if they intended the fire to do its worst, they would be guilty, but if they only set fire to the letters, and it was contrary to their intention to burn the house, even if the house had been burned, they would not have been guilty. I shall so leave the case to the jury.' Reg. v. Batstone, 10 Cox, C. C. 20.

As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895, and vol. 1, p. 80, 81.

See the note to the next subsequent section.

(t) Not less than five years if the offence was committed after the 25th July, 1864; see vol. 1, p. 73.

(u) This clause is taken from the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 25, s. 7.

The words 'or any other matter or thing in the last preceding section mentioned,' were introduced by the Committee of the Lords in order to refer to the words 'any hay, straw, wood, or other vegetable produce, coal, turf, or other matter or thing,' which were then in the preceding section; but the Select Committee of the Commons struck out all those words except 'matter or thing.' The words of reference in this clause must, therefore, now be read 'any matter or thing in, against, or under any building.'

As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895; vol. 1, pp. 80, 81.

(v) This clause embodies the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 25, ss. 1, 2. Under sec. 2 of that Act, where life was endangered, the offence was capital. As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895. See the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 12, vol. 1, p. 912, and other clauses, ib. p. 953.

12 Geo. 3, c. 24, s. 1, wilfully setting on fire, &c., ships of war, arsenals, &c., timber, &c., or stores of war.

The 12 Geo. 3, c. 24, s. 1, enacts, 'that if any person or persons shall either within this realm, or in any of the islands, countries, forts, or places thereunto belonging, wilfully and maliciously set on fire, or burn, or otherwise destroy, or cause to be set on fire, or burnt, or otherwise destroyed, or aid, procure, abet, or assist in the setting on fire, or burning or otherwise destroying of any of his Majesty's ships or vessels of war, whether the said ships or vessels of war be on float, or building, or begun to be built, in any of his Majesty's dock-yards, or building or repairing by contract in any private yards, for the use of his Majesty, or any of his Majesty's arsenals, magazines, dock-yards, rope-yards, victualling offices, or any of the buildings erected therein, or belonging thereto; or any timber or materials there placed for building, repairing, or fitting out of ships or vessels; or any of his Majesty's military, naval, or victualling stores, or other ammunition of war, or any place or places where any such military, naval, or victualling stores, or other ammunition of war, is, are, or shall be kept, placed, or deposited; that then the person or persons guilty of any such offence,' being thereof convicted, in due form of law, shall be adjudged guilty of felony, and shall suffer death as in cases of felony without benefit of clergy. (x)

Trial in any county, place, &c.

By the second section of this Act, any person who shall commit any of the offences before mentioned out of the realm, may be indicted and tried either in any county within the realm, or in such island (vv) Not less than five years if the offence was committed after the 25th July, 1864; see vol. 1, p. 73.

(w) This clause is taken from the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 25, s. 6. As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895, vol. 1, p. 80, 81. The prisoners were indicted under this section for damaging the house of J. Gate by the explosion of gunpowder, J. Gate and his wife being therein. In Cumberland there is a custom in country places, when a wedding has taken place, for the neighbours to assemble with guns, and fire a kind of feu de joie in honour of the event, the bridegroom or his friends treating them. In pursuance of this custom the prisoners and others went with a gun thus to celebrate the marriage of Gate's daughter with one Noble. On arriving at Gate's house they asked for drink, and said they had come to shoot. Noble treated them to beer, and gave the one who had the gun 2*s.* 6*d.* not to fire. Having got the beer they wanted something to eat, but were put out of Gate's house. They then began to fire the gun; at first in front of the house; then they fired under the door, filling the house with smoke. They fired off the gun next through the keyhole of the door, and, being out of percussion-caps, applied a candle to the nipple for the purpose. The effect of this shot was to drive the key with great violence into the house, cutting the arm of Mrs. Gate, and knocking Gate insensible off his chair, by striking him on the head. It also blew the lock of the door to pieces, and split the door. The prisoners were afterwards very abusive and violent on the inmates rushing out to capture them and their gun. Martin, B., was of opinion that the statute was not meant to apply to such a case as this, but rather to malicious injuries to houses, by placing or throwing explosive substances against or into them, with intent to destroy the house or injure the inmates. This was more in the nature of wanton mischief or assault, and he directed an acquittal. Reg. v. Brown, 3 F. & F. 821. If this case is correctly reported, it deserves reconsideration. C. S. G.

(x) This offence is still capital, 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 28, ss. 6 & 7. As there is no express provision for the punishment of accessories after the fact, they are punishable under the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 94, s. 4, vol. 1, p. 176.

mob, they did not agree together to run away from the mob the first opportunity. (t)

A table for making bricks.

A table with a hole in it for water, used in the manufacture of bricks, was held not to be a machine 'prepared for or employed in any manufacture,' within the 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 30, s. 4. (u)

It is not necessary that any part of a machine should be broken; a dislocation or disarrangement of it which is injurious is sufficient.

The prisoner was indicted for damaging a machine employed in the manufacture of iron. The prosecutors were manufacturers of iron, and the prisoner was one of their workmen. Their engineer being at the door of the rolling mill engine-house, and within sight of the puddling furnace and squeezers, saw the prisoner coming down the race (an iron pathway on which the puddling balls are conveyed from the furnace to the squeezers) with a sledge-hammer, which he was drawing along with tongs towards the squeezers, the same way as if he was engaged in drawing a puddling ball. He put the sledge-hammer between the jaws of the squeezers, the engine being then in motion. There is a sort of step in the lower jaw of the squeezers between the narrow and the wide part, and the practice is to hold the puddling ball with the tongs in the wider part of the squeezers against the step until, by the action of the squeezers, it is partially crushed, and then to remove it into the narrower part of the squeezers. By this method the strain on the engine (worked by steam) which would result from forcing the balls at once into the angle of the squeezers, is avoided. The prisoner put the hammer into the upper part of the squeezers, and immediately there was a loud report, as of a blow, shaking the building. The engineer called out, 'There, young man, you have done something now;' he made no reply; but took the hammer from the squeezers with the tongs. The engineer examined the squeezers, but perceived no mark. He went into the squeezers' hole and examined the carriage of the spur-wheel of the engine and the rests; they were displaced; the silling also of the carriage was displaced. These injuries would not have occurred if the sledge-hammer had not been put in. The connecting-rod was displaced and lifted up, but the engine was not so much displaced as to prevent the work from going on; it continued to roll puddled bars; no part of the machinery was broken. The oak silling and the brickwork under it had given way and sunk, and the carriage went down with it. The actual damage done to the squeezers was three shillings, and the total damage to the machine five shillings. The value of the whole machine was five thousand pounds. The millwright included the silling as part of the machine. If the silling had not given way, the probable damage would have been upwards of one thousand pounds. The sledge-hammer was fourteen or fifteen pounds weight. It was objected, 1st, that express malice must be proved, and there was no evidence that the prisoner knew what the consequences of his act would be: but Platt, B., held that everything wilfully done, if injurious, must be inferred to be done with malice. 2nd, that there was no damage to any part of the machine; for the silling was no part of the machine, but only that part which was in motion. 3rd, that

CHAPTER THE FIFTY-SEVENTH.

OF BURNING AND DAMAGING SHIPS AND OTHER VESSELS, AND ARTICLES THEREUNTO BELONGING.

Setting fire to a ship.

By the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 42, 'whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to, cast away, or in anywise destroy any ship or vessel, whether the same be complete or in an unfinished state, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall be liable, at the discretion of the court, to be kept in penal servitude for life or for any term not less than three (a) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and with or without solitary confinement, and, if a male under the age of sixteen years, with or without whipping.' (b)

Setting fire to ships to prejudice the owner or underwriters.

Sec. 43. 'Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously set fire to, or cast away, or in anywise destroy any ship or vessel, with intent thereby to prejudice any owner or part owner of such ship or vessel, or of any goods on board the same, or any person that has underwritten or shall underwrite any policy of insurance upon such ship or vessel, or on the freight thereof, or upon any goods on board the same, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall be liable, at the discretion of the court, to be kept in penal servitude for life, or for any term not less than three (a) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and with or without solitary confinement, and, if a male under the age of sixteen years, with or without whipping.' (c)

Attempting to set fire to a vessel.

Sec. 44. 'Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously, by any overt act, attempt to set fire to, cast away, or destroy any ship or vessel, under such circumstances that if the ship or vessel were thereby set fire to, cast away, or destroyed, the offender would be guilty of felony, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof, shall be liable, at the discretion of the court, to be kept in penal servitude for any term not exceeding fourteen and not less than three (a) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and with or with-

(a) Not less than five years if the offence was committed after the 25th of July, 1864. See vol. 1, p. 73.

(b) This clause is taken from the 7 Will. 4, & 1 Vict. c. 89, ss. 4, 6. Under sec. 4, the offence of setting fire to a ship or vessel whereby life was endangered was capital, but that punishment is abolished.

The words 'injuries to ships' before this section were accidentally omitted in reprinting the Bill after it passed the Select Committee of the Commons.

As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895, vol. 1, pp. 80, 81.

(c) This clause is taken from the 7 Will. 4 & 1 Vict. c. 89, s. 6.

As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895, vol. 1, pp. 80, 81.

cast adrift, remove, alter, deface, sink, or destroy, or shall unlawfully and maliciously do any act with intent to cut away, cast adrift, remove, alter, deface, sink, or destroy, or shall in any other manner unlawfully and maliciously injure or conceal any boat, buoy, buoy-rope, perch, or mark used or intended for the guidance of seamen or the purpose of navigation, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to be kept in penal servitude for any term not exceeding seven years, and not less than three (i) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and with or without solitary confinement, and, if a male under the age of sixteen years, with or without whipping.' Destroying wrecks or any articles belonging thereto.

Sec. 49. 'Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously destroy any part of any ship or vessel which shall be in distress, or wrecked, stranded, or cast on shore, or any goods, merchandise, or articles of any kind belonging to such ship or vessel, shall be guilty of felony, and being convicted thereof shall be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to be kept in penal servitude for any term not exceeding fourteen and not less than three (i) years—or to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and with or without solitary confinement.' 12 Geo. 3, c. 24. Persons wilfully destroying ships of war, arsenals, dock-yards, &c., or any timber, &c., or stores.

The 12 Geo. 3, c. 24, relates to the King's ships of war, arsenals, &c., and enacts, 'that if any person or persons shall, either within this realm or in any of the islands, countries, forts, or places thereunto belonging, wilfully and maliciously set on fire, or burn, or otherwise destroy, or cause to be set on fire, or burnt, or otherwise destroyed, or aid, procure, abet, or assist in the setting on fire, or burning or otherwise destroying of any of his Majesty's ships or vessels of war, whether the said ships or vessels of war be on float or building, or begun to be built, in any of his Majesty's dock-yards, or building or repairing by contract in any private yards, for the use of his Majesty, or any of his Majesty's arsenals, magazines, dock-yards, rope-yards, victualling offices, or any of the buildings erected therein, or belonging thereto; or any timber or materials there placed for building, repairing, or fitting out of ships or vessels; or any of his Majesty's military, naval, or victualling stores, or other ammunition of war, or any place or places where any such military, naval, or victualling stores, or other ammunition of war, is, are, or shall be kept, placed, or deposited;' the person or persons guilty of any such offence shall be adjudged guilty of felony, and suffer death without benefit of clergy. (l) By the second section, persons committing these offences out of the realm, may be indicted and tried for the same either in any county within

(i) Not less than five years if the offence was committed after the 25th of July, 1864. See vol. 1, p. 73.

(j) This clause was framed from the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 99, s. 28. That section appears to have been very improvidently repealed by the 17 & 18 Vict. c. 120, in consequence of the passing of the Mercantile Marine Act, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104. Sec. 414 of that Act imposes only a pecuniary penalty on any person who wilfully or negligently injures any buoy or beacon, or removes, alters, or destroys any light-ship, buoy, or beacon, in addition to the expense of making good the damage done. This is a punishment wholly inadequate to the offences in the 9 & 10 Vict. c. 99, s. 28, and therefore this clause was introduced.

As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895, vol. 1, pp. 80, 81.

(k) This clause is taken from the 7 Will. 4 and 1 Vict. c. 89, s. 8.

As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895, vol. 1, pp. 80, 81.

in the 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 29, s. 17, where it was meant to include boats, the words were, 'vessel, barge, or boat,' clearly making a distinction between a vessel and a boat. Patteson, J., 'That the term vessel would in common parlance include this boat is clear, but whether in this Act of Parliament it was meant to include such boats is the question.' 'I incline to think that this boat is within the clause in the Act of Parliament; but as the word vessel must have the same construction in all other Acts of Parliament, it might lead to inconvenience, and therefore if necessary I will take the opinion of the judges upon it.' (p)

Part owner.

We have seen that a part owner might be guilty of the offence of setting fire to a ship within the 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 30, s. 9. (q)

Indictment.

In one case it was objected that the indictment was bad, because it did not allege that the damage was done 'otherwise than by fire;' but it was held to be sufficient, as it was alleged to be done by beating a hole in the bottom of the boat. (r)

Indictment against accessories before the fact for a substantive felony in casting away a ship. Jurisdiction of the Central Criminal Court. The 1 Vict. c. 89, s. 6, applied where there was a policy on goods, though they were not put on board the vessel.

One count alleged that E. Loose, a certain vessel on the high seas feloniously did cast away with intent to prejudice A. Howden and another, being part owners of the said vessel, and that the prisoners, within the jurisdiction of the Central Criminal Court, did feloniously incite the said E. Loose to commit the said felony. Other counts varied the intent. Howden and Anistice were owners of one-fourth of the ship, and one of the prisoners of the other three-fourths; the goods, which were put on board by Zulietta and Co., the charterers of the ship, were insured at Lloyd's, the intent to prejudice the underwriters on that policy being alleged in one of the counts; but in the case of three different policies on goods, which were effected by the prisoners, no part of such goods were ever put on board. The ship was wilfully sunk by Loose, the captain, on the high seas, and there was a total loss (except a very trifling salvage) of both ship and cargo, and the jury found the prisoners guilty of the whole charge. It was objected, 1st, that the indictment was not properly framed as an indictment for a substantive felony within the 7 Geo. 4, c. 64, s. 9, but as an indictment at common law against the principal and accessory before the fact, and, as the principal had not been convicted, the accessory could not be tried or convicted upon it; 2nd, that the Central Criminal Court had no jurisdiction to try an accessory before the fact to a felony on the high seas, unless the principal had been committed to or detained in prison by this court for such felony; 3rd, as the 1 Vict. c. 89, s. 6, described the intent to be 'to prejudice the persons who shall underwrite any policy of insurance upon goods on board the ship,' no evidence was admissible as to the three policies on goods affected by the prisoners, where no goods had been put on board. But, on a case reserved, the judges were of opinion, as to the first objection, that the description of the offence was not altered by the statute. It might have been put in a different shape, but every allegation in this count would have been included in any other. As to the second objection, that the 4 & 5 Will. 4, c. 36, s. 22, must be taken distributively, as to the commission of oyer and terminer and gaol delivery. There was a general power to hear and determine all offences committed on the high seas, though the gaol delivery commission only extended to all persons committed or detained. As to the last objection, that the words in the statute were a mere description of a policy on goods. And they unanimously held the conviction right. (s)

(r) Rex v. Bowyer, supra. In Benyon v. Cresswell, 12 Q. B. 899, it was held that a pleasure-boat of seven tons burthen was not 'a ship or vessel' within the 8 & 9 Vict. c. 89, s. 34; and in Morewood v. Pollock, 1 E. & B. 743, a point was determined as to a lighter; but neither case throws any light on the meaning of the words 'ship' or 'vessel.'

Misconduct endangering ship or life or limb a misdemeanor.

By the Merchant Shipping Act, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, s. 239, 'any master or any seaman or apprentice belonging to any British ship who by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, does any act tending to the immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage of such ship, or tending immediately to endanger the life or limb of any person belonging to or on board of such ship, or who by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, refuses or omits to do any lawful act proper and requisite to be done by him for preserving such ship from immediate loss, destruction or serious damage, or for preserving any person belonging to or on board of such ship from immediate danger to life or limb, shall for every such offence be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.'

Penalty on pilot endangering ship, life, or limb.

Sec. 366. 'If any pilot, when in charge of any ship, by wilful breach of duty or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, does any act tending to the immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage of such ship, or tending immediately to endanger the life or limb of any person on board such ship; or if any pilot, by wilful breach of duty or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness, refuses or omits to do any lawful act proper and requisite to be done by him for preserving such ship from loss, destruction, or serious damage, or for preserving any person belonging to or on board of such ship from danger to life or limb, the pilot so offending shall for each such offence be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and if a qualified pilot, also be liable to suspension and dismissal by the authority by which he is licensed.' (t)

Punishment.

By Sec. 518. In all places within her Majesty's dominions except Scotland, (tt) 'every offence by this Act declared to be a misdemeanor shall be punishable by fine or imprisonment, with or without hard labour. And the Court before which such offence is tried may in England make the same allowances and order payment of the same costs and expenses, as if such misdemeanor had been enumerated in the Act of the 7 Geo. 4, c. 64, or any other Act that may be passed for the like purpose; and may in any other part of Her Majesty's dominions make such allowances and order payment of such costs and expenses (if any) as are payable or

(t) Sec. 367. 'If any person, by wilful misrepresentation of circumstances, upon which the safety of a ship may depend, obtains or endeavours to obtain the charge of such ship, such person, and every other person procuring, abetting, or conniving at the commission of such offence, shall, in addition to any liability for damages at the suit of the party aggrieved, incur a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds, and, if the offender is a qualified pilot, he shall also be liable to suspension or dismissal by the pilotage authority by which he is licensed.'

allowable upon the trial of any misdemeanor under any existing act or ordinance, or as may be payable or allowable under any act or law for the time being in force therein.' (u)

Offence, where deemed to have been committed.

Sec. 520, 'For the purpose of giving jurisdiction under this Act, every offence shall be deemed to have been committed, and every cause of complaint to have arisen, either in the place in which the same actually was committed or arose, or in any place in which the offender or person complained against may be.'

Construction of the words 'act tending to the immediate loss,' &c.

On an indictment on the 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, s. 239, for doing an act tending to the loss of a ship, it appeared that the prisoner struck a light with a match, and lighted a candle, in a part of the ship forbidden by the ship's regulations, and threw down the match before it was extinguished, but there was no sufficient evidence that a fire which occurred six hours afterwards arose from this act; it was contended that the act charged must be followed by the loss of the ship. Bramwell, B., 'I am of opinion that if the act tended to the loss, destruction, or damage of the ship, though neither result followed, it is a misdemeanor within this section; as if a man should stick a lighted candle in an uncovered barrel of gunpowder, though he put it out immediately, I think that would be an act tending to the damage of the ship. The latter part of the section is, I think, open to the same construction, and both would be illustrated by two persons being together in the immediate neighbourhood of an explosive and unprotected material, and one lighting a candle, and the other omitting to put it out; the first would be guilty under the former clause of the section, and the second under the latter.' And the jury were told that 'to convict upon this indictment you must be satisfied that the act done was dangerous, having regard to the place, or the contents of the place in which it was done; for, if not, it would not be an "act tending to the immediate loss, destruction, or serious damage of the ship;" but you need not be of opinion that what afterwards took place was the result of that act.' (v)

(u) These offences by this section may also be dealt with summarily. See 7 Geo. 4, c. 64, and generally as to costs, vol. 1, p. 86.

therefore, it ought not to be looked upon as limited by the latter branch to cases where the injury is done by some one other than the person who erected the monument or the heir of the deceased. But even if it were contended that this passage shewed that such person or the heir could alter or deface a monument, it seems plain that such is not the law. A monument affixed to a church or in a churchyard is just as much in the possession of the incumbent as the church and churchyard, as in shewn by the action by the heir being an action on the case: consequently the heir would be guilty of a trespass if he defaced the monument without the leave of the incumbent. But it may be said that the incumbent can give such a consent as will justify the heir in dealing with the monument; it is conceived, however, that he can give no such consent. He is merely tenant for life at the utmost, and cannot lawfully do anything to the detriment of the freehold, or of anything annexed to and parcel of it, and what he cannot lawfully do himself, he cannot lawfully permit another to do. In Francis v. Ley, above cited, it was held that 'it is not lawful for any to break or deface any superstitious pictures in any church or aisle, but the ordinary only; and if any do so without license from the ordinary he shall be bound to his good behaviour, as was done in Prickett's case by Sir C. Wray, chief justice of the King's Bench.' This is a very strong authority to shew that the incumbent cannot break or deface anything annexed to the freehold of the church. If he cannot deface superstitious annexations, à multo fortiori he cannot deface monuments lawfully erected.

A little consideration will also prove that the representative of a family for the time being cannot lawfully deface them. When a person erects a monument, he dedicates it for ever for every purpose which it may lawfully serve. He intends it to be in perpetuam memoriam of every thing stated in it. As soon as it is annexed to the freehold it passes into the possession of the incumbent to be preserved for the purposes for which it was erected. Now, what are those purposes? It becomes for all future time legal evidence of all the births, marriages, and deaths mentioned in it in every case where any question may arise relating to any of them. This clearly proves that the representative of the family for the time being can have no right to destroy it; for all other members of the family then living or thereafter to be born have or will have an interest in it. The present representative may be a peer, the last of his branch of the family, and there may be a monument which alone would prove the descent of the next heir to the title; it is impossible to suppose that he can lawfully destroy such a monument, and thereby prevent the next heir from succeeding to the peerage. So it may be that the present representative is tenant for life of an estate entailed on the heir male of the family; can he lawfully destroy a monument which may prove who is entitled to succeed to the estate on his death? A monument also may be evidence for a person wholly a stranger in blood to the person who erected it. Suppose an estate be entailed on the heirs male of A. with remainder to A.'s right heirs; a monument may shew that C. the son of A. died without issue male, and may thus prove that a female descendant of A. was seised in fee of the estate, and so establish the title of a stranger in blood, to whom the female had devised the estate. These instances, which have occurred in the families of two peers, plainly shew that the representative of a family for the time being cannot lawfully alter or destroy any inscription on a monument erected to a member of his family. In fact his position is extremely like that of a tenant for life of an estate under lease, who may bring an action on the case against any one who cuts down timber, on the estate, but cannot cut it himself, or permit it to be cut by any other person.

It might also be well contended that the public have the same interest in a monument that they have in a register of births, marriages, and deaths, and that an inscription on the one can no more lawfully be defaced by any one than an entry in the other. But amply sufficient has been said to shew that there can be no doubt whatever that no one can lawfully deface any monumental inscription.

Where an aisle in a church belongs to a private individual, it seems clear that he is in the actual possession of it, and of everything in it; and consequently he may maintain an action of trespass against any one who injures any monument in it. See Burn's Ec. L., 'Church, IIe.'

As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895, vol. 1, p. 80, 81.

peace under this Act (c) and if such sums of money, together with costs (if ordered), shall not be paid either immediately after the conviction, or within such period as the justice shall at the time of the conviction appoint, the justice may commit the offender to the common gaol or house of correction, there to be imprisoned only, or to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour, as the justice shall think fit, for any term not exceeding two months, unless such sums and costs be sooner paid: provided that nothing herein contained shall extend to any case where the party acted under a fair and reasonable supposition that he had a right to do the act complained of, (d) nor to any trespass, not being wilful and malicious, committed in hunting, fishing, or in the pursuit of game, but that every such trespass shall be punishable in the same manner as if this Act had not passed.' (e)

Not to extend to certain cases herein named.

Preceding section to extend to trees.

Sec. 53. 'The provisions in the last preceding section contained shall extend to any person who shall wilfully or maliciously commit any injury to any tree, sapling, shrub, or underwood, for which no punishment is hereinbefore provided.' (f)

Damage to the amount of £5 must be done on one occasion to bring a case within sec. 51.

An indictment on the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 51, alleged that the prisoner committed damage to the amount of five pounds on real and personal property; the evidence was that the damage, exceeding five pounds, was done on two following days, but the damage on either day did not amount to five pounds; it was objected that the indictment was not sustained, as it was not proved that damage exceeding five pounds was done at any one time; and it was held in Ireland, on a case reserved, that this evidence did not prove an offence within that section. (g)

The word 'maliciously,' in the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 51, requires that an act to be criminal within that section should be done wilfully. A conviction under that section, for unlawfully and maliciously committing damage above the value of 5*l.* to a house, where the defendant, after fighting in a crowd in the street near the window of the house, separated himself from the crowd, picked up a stone, threw it at one of the persons with whom he had been punishment for offences committed in the night was introduced principally with reference to Ireland, where malicious injuries seem often to be perpetrated in the night.

As to hard labour, &c., see ante, p. 895, vol. 1, pp. 80, 81.

(c) See sec. 64, Appendix.

(d) See Reg. v. The Justices of Richmond, 8 Cox, C. C. 314, and Reg. v. Dodson, 9 A. & E. 704, that it is a question for the magistrates under all the circumstances, whether the party acted under such fair and reasonable supposition that he had a right to do the act.

(e) This clause is taken from the 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 30, s. 24. There was a similar clause in the 14 & 15 Vict. c. 92, s. 3 (I.).

The former Act was defective in neither giving the power to award any fine in addition to the amount of the injury done, nor any imprisonment; the latter Act did both; and this clause authorizes the justice either to commit the offender or to fine him, in addition to the amount of the injury done.

This clause is altered in accordance with the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 126, s. 22, so that where the owner of the property injured is examined as a witness, he may receive compensation for the injury.

(f) This clause is new, and was introduced in consequence of Reg. v. Dodgson, 9 A. & E. 704, and Chanter v. Greame, 13 Q. B. 216. In the former case the court expressed a clear opinion that trees under the value of a shilling were within the 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 30, s. 24; in the latter the court expressed an almost equally clear opinion that they were not. This clause brings them within the preceding section, and it was very expedient that it should; for a malicious individual might destroy a newly planted wood with impunity by destroying a single tree at a time, and several flagrant instances of the kind had occurred.

(g) Reg. v. Williams, 9 Cox, C. C. 338.

fighting, missed his aim, and hit a plate-glass window above the value of 5*l.* in the house, but did not intend to break the window, was quashed. (h)

In an indictment under 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 51, for maliciously damaging personal property, the damage exceeding 5*l.*, it is not necessary to allege the value of each article injured, but only that the amount of the damage done to the several articles exceeded 5*l.* in the aggregate. (i)

(h) R. v. Pembleton, 43 L. J. M. C. 91; et per Blackburn, J., 'We have not to consider what may be malice aforethought at common law in cases of murder; the present is a statutory offence created by a statute relating to malicious injuries to property. When a person wilfully does an act to the injury of another without any lawful cause, the act is malicious. Here the act was without lawful excuse, but was it wilful? Upon the facts there was evidence upon which the jury might have found, if they had been so directed, that the act was malicious. If they had found that the prisoner was aware that the window was where it was, and that he was likely to break it, and was reckless whether he did so or not, the case might have been different, but they were not so directed, and have not so found. They have found that he did not intend to break the window. Therefore, I think the conviction must be quashed.'
